CHAPTER X WEALTH It would indeed be strange if we should find Jesus silent regarding wealth. His interest in humanity and all that pertains to humanity must have forced him to a consideration of the subject. Altogether the largest proportion of human endeavor is devoted to economic affairs. Reduce the hours of labor however we may, the great object of life on the part of most men is to earn enough to enable them to keep living. There is too, the widespread ambition to get rich. It is probably true that this, as much as any other motive in life, lies beneath the social evolution of society. It is not true, as some insist, that the economic are the only motives operative in human history; but they are certainly so prominent and so powerful as to be of first importance. Now, Jesus, in teaching and living the gospel, was never far from life. He saw the poor all about him, and saw the rich turning from him. He himself had been obliged to earn a living for himself and, if tradition is to be believed, for his mother and his brothers and sisters. He saw too, how hard it is for men who are seeking wealth to make the things of spiritual value supreme. And for that reason he spoke about wealth perhaps more than about any other subject, unless it was the kingdom of God and the wickedness of religious hypocrisy. In...
